2. What We Do

A large, white, jagged iceberg floats in the middle of a calm, dark sea under a pale sky. The iceberg's surface is textured with various cracks and ridges. Below the waterline, a much larger and more complex structure of ice is visible, extending deep into the dark water. This submerged part of the iceberg is highly irregular and jagged, showing the true scale of the floating ice mass compared to the visible tip.

The background is a dark, monochromatic composition. It features a faint, stylized city skyline with various building silhouettes. Overlaid on this are two primary data visualization elements: a thick, dark line graph that fluctuates across the upper half of the image, and a bar chart with numerous vertical bars of varying heights in the lower half. Faint, light-colored geometric shapes, including triangles and lines, are scattered throughout the background, adding to the abstract, analytical feel.
