What is Fine Art Insurance?

Fine Art insurance can provide cover for precious and high value objects, including paintings and sculptures. In addition to providing protection against the typical risks such as fire and water damage, fine art insurance also considers other factors that can impact the artwork and its worth.

Whether your valuable items are privately held or under the care of art facilities, and whether they are on display, on loan, in storage, or in transit, it is important to recognize potential risks. Securing insurance cover for fine art collections can protect an individual item or a complete collection, helping to mitigate against potential risks and ensuring the preservation and financial security of your art investment.
